THIEVES LOOT NILES BILLIARD HALL SUNDAY

Murphy's Establishment
Entered; Cash Box
Emptied

Evidently waiting until night watchman Art Roderick went off duty as dawn was breaking Sunday morning, burglars forced the doors of Murphy's Billiard hall on First street, Niles, and robbed the establishment of two "pin and ball machines," and a sum of money from the cash drawer.

Called to the scene later in the morning Roderick summoned Constable Tom Silva, who made an investigation of the premises. Constable O. W. Ebricht and Deputy Sheriff Hugo Radbruch were called and the establishment was combed for evidence. The finding of several clues will make the arrest of the criminals a matter of time only, according to reports.

Smashed open, and with the cash missing, the two machines were found later in the day by railroad workers in the Niles freight yards. Scattered about the machines were a number of worthless coupons, evidently mistaken for cash or checks by the culprits. A wallet containing fifty dollars was overlooked by the thieves, according to authorities.

The effectiveness with which the Niles night watchman keeps his vigil is proved by the fact that the evil doers waited until he had gone off duty, rather than attempt their theft in the small hours of the night. The robbery Sunday morning is the first in the town of Niles for many months and officials aver they will not rest until the culprits are brought to justice.

COURT OF HONOR FRIDAY AT NILES GRAMMAR SCHOOL

Niles boy scouts will gather Friday night at the largest court of honor ever held in Washington township, when scout commissioners, committeemen and officials will award thirty merit badges, perfect attendance, recognition, and several medals for outstanding achievement. Scouts Robert Solon and Harold Wiseman will receive perfect attendance awards, and Julius Pine and Bud Mello, will be given medals for expert manipulation of fire making utensils.

Mello and Pine recently placed high in fire making competition at the eastern district rally held at Hayward.

Prospector Returns To Niles From Canada

Jack McClure, of Niles, is back home after several months spent in the Canadian Rockies seeking gold. McClure states that most of the country he covered was unproductive. He struck a profitable field just a short time before the initial winter snows forced him to abandon his trip. McClure stated that he was not equipped to cope with the winter snows and storms of the mountain region.

The first hotel in the town of Niles was located on the site now occupied by the Congregational parsonage. It was conducted by Sam Bonner.

POULTRY EXPERT TELLS NILES CIVIC GROUP OF PROGRESS IN RESEARCH

John E. Kimber Foresees
Important Advances
In Industry

"Fine feathers do not make fine birds," according to John E. Kimber, Niles poultry expert, who Monday gave an interesting talk on poultry problems and research before the Niles Chamber of Commerce.

Secured as speaker for the day by W. B. Kirk, Kimber told the group of the importance and value of the poultry industry to the state of California, and explained some of the difficulties being worked out by diligent research. Kimber emphasized the importance of heredity in the production of excellent stock, stating that during recent years mortality in first year flocks had mounted to the surprising figure of 40 to 60 per cent. This was due in part, Kimber said, to the efforts made by poultrymen to attain spectacular laying records at the expense of disease immunity and biological soundness.

Kimber stated that the study of heredity is comparatively young and that he looks to it for great advances in the poultry industry during the next few years. He said that the attainment of desired results in the production of

YOUTH CRUSHES ARM IN ACCIDENT NEAR MISSION SAN JOSE

Howard Rose, Of Niles,
Suffers Injury In Sunday Crash

Attempting to avoid a car that stopped suddenly in front of him on the Mission-Niles highway Sunday, Jack Vieux, of Niles swerved into the ditch at the side of the road when the wheel of his machine locked. Vieux's car was overturned, and Howard Rose, riding with Vieux, suffered a crushed arm. George Rose, also a passenger in the car was unhurt. Vieux escaped injury.

According to reports, the driver of the machine preceding Vieux applied his brakes suddenly when he noticed the break in the pavement where the Hetch Hetchy pipeline crosses. Vieux strove to avoid crashing into the leading car and in so doing locked the front wheels of his machine. The following crash in the ditch did little damage to the car.

PRUNING SEASON WELL UNDER WAY; IRRIGATION NEXT

The atmosphere of Washington township, smoky for the past two weeks will begin to clear soon when orchard pruning, now in full swing, will be completed and the last brush fire touched off.

Growers, it is said, have been happy over the continued clear weather in that it allowed them to keep ahead of the late season with their routine work. Had the rains come normally, the pruning and brush raking jobs would have been muddy chores, farmers aver.

Long pruning, in vogue several years ago, is conspicuous by its absence this year, growers saying that it proved of little use and made orchard cultivation a problem of avoiding overhanging branches.

On the heels of the pruning comes the start of the winter irrigation, many early birds already having their orchards checked and soaking.

AMAZONS CLASH IN FEMININE BALL GAME SUNDAY

Baseball enthusiasts will be given an unusual treat Sunday morning, when the Niles Girl's Baseball team, under the management of Mrs. Gladys Crane, clashes with the Irvington Feminine outfit in the first of a series of contests.

Practice for the game Sunday has been carried out faithfully, and Mrs. Crane states that her team is well organized and effective.

The contest, umpired by a regulation male umpire, is slated to begin at 10:00 a. m. With the exception of a lighter ball, the equipment used will be regulation. Uniforms will consist of shorts, slacks or jeans with shirts, tennis shoes and caps.

Other games on the Amazons' schedule are with the Fremont and various grammar school "A" teams throughout the township.

The Irvington lineup has not yet been released, according to Irma Dutra, captain and pitcher of that team.

Mr. LaPorte, prominent in Christian Endeavor work in the state.

Local groups from Niles, Centerville, Irvington, Newark, Mission San Jose, Alvarado, Decoto, Pleasanton Livermore and Hayward will be represented at the meet. Anyone interested in the meet is urged to attend. Rev. Mr. Brinkmeyer said.

Subject of sermon by Rev. E. G. Brinkmeyer for Sunday, November 26, is "Graceful Living."

Seventy carloads of gravel from the Alameda creek, at Niles, were used in the building of the Greek Theatre at the University of California.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

License Running Wild

Snatching the "lid off" whisky, gambling, and all its allied interests, is already feeling the backwash of public sentiment. Touts, sharks and other underworld characters, seizing upon what appears to be a moral degeneracy of the nation, have come out in the open to fleece the public to the last farthing. Letting down the bars, here and everywhere, has led to license little dreamed of during the past twenty years. The brazen attitude of toughs and alley bums who follow the game of liquor and gambling, have already awakened the dormant mind to at least a gesture of opposition to flagrant abuses, understood to be lawful under recent statutes enacted in California and in other states. Over in San Mateo, the dog race business is having trouble. Constable Landini, backed by public sentiment, is raiding the tracks, and making the life of gambling on the doggies not as sweet as the promoters anticipated with the revival of the "sport of kings," cut down from the size of a horse to a dog. Elsewhere, the lid blown completely off is being picked up by an awakening public consciousness, and an effort made to slam it back on.

So goes the fight on vice. It is endless. The pendulum swings back and forth. Man, tiring of personal restrictions, throws them off. After a while, he learns for the thousandth time, that he cannot drink and let it alone—gamble and stop before he is broke. He is weak, and finds it out time and time again. So he builds breast works out of sumptuary laws to protect himself against his inherent weakness and foolishness. But he never learns a permanent lesson.

So the endless ring battle between the interests of vice and the patron man, goes on. It is about an even contest. Just now the hideous monster, vice, with two mammoth teeth protruding from his overhanging jaw, grins, in his stupid sort of way. But wait; the patron is rising. He hasn't taken the count of ten, and the show goes on.

Introducing "Colorado" Lewis

The writer has been told, by complaining Democrats, that John Lewis, recently appointed to the internal revenue department at San Francisco, has given his brother, a citizen of Colorado, a $300 a month job in his office.

This is the same Lewis, an obscure lawyer, of Oakland, late of Colorado, who, in some mysterious manner, impressed Senator McAdoo with the desirability of letting him (Lewis) select all federal appointees in Alameda county and roundabout.

With one exception, perhaps, no one in Alameda county has received a federal job without the say-so of Colorado Lewis, whose brother now enjoys the feast that some worthy Alameda county Democrat had hoped to enjoy as a reward for living and working for Democracy in the Bay district of California.

But then after all, as we have remarked before, a man is worse than an infidel who does not look after his own. The Lewis family is planning on getting along in the world,—at least as long as the gentleman on the preferred list of the House of Morgan remains in the senate, or among the living disciples of Andrew Jackson, who believed that to the victors belongs the spoils—with just a select few counted as victors.

C OF C'S ADVANCE TO 2ND PLACE IN WIN OVER NEWARK

Hillbillies Smothered Under 17 to 1 Score
At Niles Sunday

Hitting a ball with monotonous regularity, the Niles C of C's Sunday slashed their way into the second place in the league when they snatched the Newark Hillbillies under a score of 17 to 1 at the Niles grammar school grounds. At no time did the Newark team threaten, so well were they kept in control by the tight ball pitched by Art Medeiros. Medeiros allowed 4 hits in the seven inning contest, and struck out 13.

In the fourth inning the Hillbillies flared up to score their lone run when E. Thompson doubled to right. He scored on Soito's single.

Wes Raso's hitting was the feature of the day. He banged out a homer with two men on, and proceeded to collect 3 hits in four tries. Jack Cahill, equalled Raso's record with 3 out of 4, and also played a stellar game at first base. Much to the merriment of his team mates, Cahill broke another bat Sunday. That gives him a record of seven since the season started.

Wes Raso was placed on the injured list late in the game when he sprained his ankle sliding into the home plate. L. Manuel replaced him at short for the remaining inning. Newark called the game in the seventh inning, realizing the futility of trying to catch up.

"METERED-CHECK" PLAN DROPPED BY BANK ASSOCIATION

Provisions of the new bank code, adopted by the Eastbay Regional Clearing House recently, insure against the assessment of "metered-check" charges, according to a statement this week from R. Blacow, of the Bank of Alameda County, at Niles.

Oakland area banks will charge $1 per month on checking accounts, when the balance falls below $100, as was the previous arrangement. Outlying banks, such as those in Washington township, will place a charge of 50 cents a month on commercial accounts that fall below the minimum of $50.

Rural banks throughout the east bay had been putting up a struggle to defeat the "metered-check" charge, which according to its originators, was designed to discourage the writing of numerous small checks by the use of a graduated charge to be put upon the number of checks written. It is said that the metered check charge would have been a heavy burden on depositors who were in the habit of using checks for payment of the majority of their bills and for their purchases.

In order to avoid the monthly charge of 50 cents it will henceforth be necessary for rural depositors to maintain a balance of $50 or greater in their commercial accounts.

Norman H. Parks was a business visitor in San Francisco Monday.

Don't Let the Grass Grow

By OXLEY STENGEL

©, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service

"BETTER and better!" Ralph Wilcox exclaimed delightedly. "Why, I didn't believe you had it in you, Max!"

Max Crawford groaned aloud. "I say! Have a heart, can't you? Just because I tell you I spilled a cup of tea—like the clumsy ass that I was—spoiling a dress and an afternoon for a pretty girl and generally making a fool of myself—you think it a huge joke."

"Drop a cup of it," Ralph corrected solemnly. His brown eyes twinkled. "Nevertheless wild horses couldn't have kept him away!" he exclaimed in an aside. "You see, she, the one-and-only-girl-in-all-the-world, asked him to go. There is the answer."

"What of it?" Max demanded fiercely. "She's asked others, too!" "What of it! That's what I'm asking you, curly head," Ralph returned. "Why, man, I didn't think you were so clever!"

"Clever in getting myself in messes, yes. Say, Ralph, can't you let me alone?"

"Certainly, I can. But is it fair, I ask you, to begin a good love story and not finish it? I want to know how it is going to end."

Max did not follow his friend upstairs until the clock struck one. Had Mary really forgiven his clumsiness of the afternoon before? She had said so, of course.

On the 8:10 train bound for the city next morning Ralph made no mention of the tea and Max's part in it. For which Max was duly grateful. But as they were parting at the Grand Central station Ralph reminded him that he could finish "that story" on Sunday. "Don't let the grass grow under your feet," he warned. "Dinner at two, as usual. There may be company."

Acting on Ralph's advice, Max decided to call Mary up. He waited until evening, however. Miss Davis was out for dinner, he was informed to his dismay. That was Thursday.

On Friday morning Max was called out of town on business. He reached home late Saturday night. Too late to call Mary Davis! He tried at ten on Sunday morning. "Miss Davis is out of town for the week end."

Max started out and walked miles before catching the 12:32 for Tower Hill.

Max arrived at The Rookery just in time for dinner. Mrs. Wilcox greeted him cordially and ignored his silences. "Ralph is late, I'm sorry," she told him. "He drove down to the city early. He only said he would bring a girl home to dinner. I don't understand it at all. I thought—"

"I thought so, too, Mrs. Wilcox!" Max volunteered. Then in answer to her questioning look: "I thought Ralph was in love with Elizabeth Darrow—and she with him," he simply added.

Just then they both saw Ralph's car coming up the drive. It stopped in front of the plaza and Ralph jumped out. He was followed by a girl, Mary Davis! For a moment Max saw red. Then he realized another girl was being assisted out of the car also. Elizabeth Darrow.

Dinner was a wonderful feast. Max was seated next to Mary.

After dinner what was more natural than to wander over the hills to the Rookery with Mary? Ralph and Elizabeth had just disappeared.

It was nearing sunset. Max and Mary had been watching a sailboat on the Sound. Mary looked down at the carpet of green at their feet.

"Why, you can almost see the grass grow!" she laughed, tossing her dear brown curls out of her face.

"Oh, it mustn't!" Max exclaimed. "Stand on that rock, please, Mary!" "What do you mean?" the girl was puzzled.

"I mean—I don't want to let the grass grow under our feet—I don't want to lose you, Mary."

Then he held out his arms and Mary's dear head was on his shoulder. He drew her close. It was their hour. A golden hour on a golden afternoon.

"Now, will you finish that story?" Ralph demanded when the two girls had gone upstairs with Mrs. Wilcox.

"Yes. And they lived happily ever after—thanks only to you! But how in the world, Ralph, did—"

"How did I find out about Mary?" Easy. She and Elizabeth are friends, you remember. But even with your good start you surely needed help, old man!"

"I surely did!" Max grinned. "Thanks, pal. But congratulations are due you, too. All the happiness in the world!"

"Well, I go after mine! Here are the girls now."

a rather bold thing to do, Daisy admitted—and not the sort of thing that her sisters would have considered even decent. As a general thing, Daisy agreed with them—it wasn't safe to pick up strange young men and take them driving along the country highway to Barnbury—but the young man sitting beside her in her car was decidedly prepossessing.

Barnbury was in sight—and the bus had not been overtaken. It was a little settlement of some eight or nine houses, two gas-filling stations, a little store and the remains of an old wooden church. The young man had indicated that he had business in Barnbury. Obviously there was not much business to be done there.

"Here we are," Daisy told him. It was a desperately bold thing to do, but she told him that if his business wasn't going to take very long she would wait and carry him back to Hinton, assuming of course that he wanted to go to Hinton. But the young man did not even get out of the car. He looked at her contritely and explained that as a matter of fact he had no business whatever in Barnbury. To his surprise the girl at the wheel showed no sign of resentment. They drove back to Hinton in silence that became mutually embarrassing.

"I take it for granted that you want to go back to Hinton," said Daisy, with an arch little smile. "Perhaps you have friends there."

"Not unless I might count you as a friend," said Schuyler. "The fact is I had never heard of either Hinton or Barnbury in my life until this morning. I was motoring from New York to Ohio and this morning I found myself in Hinton with some slight engine trouble which I could not attend to. I left my car in a garage and started for a stroll. That was when I saw you—you apparently thought you had a puncture."

"Really, I didn't," said Daisy. "I only stopped my car because I thought you looked—well, a little different from the men we meet here."

"And you don't exactly hate me because I let you think I was trying to get the bus?" said Schuyler. "Oh, I knew you weren't trying to get the bus. Only at the time I couldn't think of any better excuse to talk to you."

Daisy took her eyes from the road ahead of her long enough to look at him with a little pout of annoyance. "And I suppose you'll start right on your way as soon as we get back to Hinton?"

"Not if you'll let me stay—and get a little better acquainted. As a matter of fact there isn't anything the matter with my car. I just left it there. I had seen you earlier in the day as I came into Hinton, and I made up my mind that I wasn't going to leave the place until I knew you better. I think it was a case of love at first sight."

"I can't tell you how glad I am that you feel that way about it," said Daisy. "I'd hate awfully to feel that way about it all by myself."

In the Mirror

By RUBY DOUGLAS

©, 1933, McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service

DORIS GRAHAM had returned to spend the summer at the quiet, cliff-built summer resort where she had been so carefree and happy five years before.

"But isn't it a stupid place to live in for three months?" asked her chum in the office.

"It wouldn't suit you," admitted Doris.

"And that dreadful trip every day," commented the other girl.

Doris was not to be discouraged. She wanted to get away from the city.

And so she had established herself in the plain, old country boarding house that she had lived in when her mother was with her and life looked rosy and merry.

Now, she was tired, a trifle discouraged at the lack of variety in her life. There was a vacancy she could not quite analyze, but she ascribed it to the fact that she could not get accustomed to living without her dear mother.

On her first free Saturday afternoon, she wandered about the old village streets.

"I'll just go down to the post office to wait for the distribution of the late mail," she said to herself.

It was as she was entering the post office five years ago that she had first seen Archie Olmstead. The thought now quickened her breath, sent that forlorn hurt straight to her heart.

What had become of him? Why had she never heard from him?

How many times she had asked herself that question only to find herself unanswered.

She found a letter for her from the girl in the office who, secretly, would have enjoyed being with Doris, but who hesitated to invite herself.

Doris thrilled at receiving a letter from the hands of the same postmaster who had stood behind the window thumbing the letters five years before, stood beside the scratched and disfigured wall to read it.

As some one pushed against her, she moved. She bumped her head, ever so slightly, against the corner of the glass-faced wall cabinet that held unclaimed letters.

For a moment she stared at the envelopes posted inside. Suddenly she stared. There was her own name—Doris Graham.

Hastily, she sought the postmaster and told him that there was a letter in the case that was addressed to her. Together, they got it and Doris, fearing, somehow, to read it in the midst of so many eyes as were upon her at this mail hour in the village, put it in her bag.

When she was alone she opened the envelope. It was a letter from Archie. In it, he told her this was the third one he had written and if he received no answer this time he would decide that she had amused herself for a summer by making him fall in love with her.

If she wrote one letter over that week end to Archie, she wrote a dozen. None suited her. She could not seem to find words to tell him all that had been in her thought of him, since they had met. She wondered where he was. Could this address be the right one?

On Monday, at the office, she tried again, this time on her typewriter. It was a stupid letter. She destroyed it.

It was still light when she arrived in the country these June nights and she decided that she would be able to pen a short note to Archie if she used the post office pen and ink on the old shelf desk where they had written each other so many tender notes in other days. With a piece of paper in her bag, she went to the post office and wrote to Archie. As she stood looking at the much used blotter on the shelf, her handbag open with its mirror back, a familiar scrawl was reflected on it.

She held the mirror over the blotted name. Yes, it was his name in his handwriting. Her heart thumped madly. He must be here, in this very town, now. The name had been written that day.

Posting the letter she had written, she hurried back to the boarding house.

When the motherly old landlady came forward, she saw that they had met on the walk leading through the arch of maples. She had remembered their early romance. She was gratified at its renewal.

It took the whole evening to explain the strange tricks Fate had played them during the years of their separation. But the faith of each of them was unshaken and Doris found herself later comparing the great happiness of her present summer with the shallow, frivolous gaiety of that holiday five years ago.

"And I knew all the time," Doris heard from her chum at the office, "that there must have been some good reason for your craving for that stupid summer resort—some other reason than the country air."

Stanley Smallwood Is Speaker at P.-T. A. Meet

A large number of women listened to an interesting address delivered by Stanley Smallwood, of the district attorney's office in Oakland at a Parent-Teachers' Association meeting held at the Pleasanton grammar school last Wednesday afternoon.

Smallwood is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Smallwood, of Pleasanton. He spoke on Racketeering and the importance of checking it at the start.

A short entertainment was presented after the lecture. Milton Regalia presented a few accordion solos; a trio consisting of Dorothy Davis, flute, Verna Littlefield, piano, and Shirley Blacet, violin, played a few selections.

According to Mrs. Rose Vieux, Niles chairman, the canvass here will continue throughout next week. Mrs. Vieux said that nearly everyone contacted subscribed to the cause willingly.

Mosquitoes Unusually Active; District Report

Despite cooler weather, when self respecting mosquitoes should refrain from propagating, fresh water varieties are still breeding profusely, according to Roland Bendel, Washington township foreman for the Mosquito Abatement district. In an effort to stem this unusual birth rate, Bendel has been busy oiling cesspools in the Mission San Jose and Alvarado districts this week. Offending dairy drains were also treated. In addition to his oiling work, Bendel cleared 1000 feet of drainage ditch in the Newark marsh area.

OPEN SEASONS LURE SPORTSMEN TO BAY REGION

Washington township nimrods who have been in quest of the wily water fowl this season, state their satisfaction in the number of birds offering themselves to the gun. Teal and canvasback, with a smattering of sprig and mallard have migrated steadily, in small numbers, into the local swamps and ponds. For a time it was feared that the continued fair weather in the northlands would keep the birds there, but southern flight has not been much reduced, according to reports from the Fish and Game Commission. The commission also states that so far they have received no complaints from hunters concerning the reduced limit.

Pheasant season offered good sport in the flat regions of Washington township last week until the birds became gun wary. On the opening day some 85 birds were reported killed in the lower bay region.

Wild pigeon season opens December 1, for 15 days; limit 20 per week.

HAYWARD FORFEITS GAME TO K. C.'S LAST WEEK

Trailing at the short end of a 23 to 19 score last Wednesday night at Hayward, the Centerville Knights of Columbus were given a victory by forfeit when their opponents, the No. 2 team of the Hayward Native Sons, used several ineligible players.

The victory would have been earned one, Centerville Knights say, if Tom Maloney, star forward had been able to play. Maloney, former captain and star forward of the San Jose State championship team, was unable to play.

Line up for the Centerville team was: Forwards, Perry and Pimentel; Guards, Duarte and Azavedo; Center, John Brown; Substitutes were: Phippen, Fuller and Mendonca.

With the league jumbled by the withdrawal of several teams, the game slated for last night with the Hayward Native Sons No. 1 team was postponed, Pimentel said.

CENTERVILLE P.T.A. BENEFIT WHIST IS FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Philanthropy Fund Is Increased, Says Mrs. C. Wahaub

A check of the funds taken in at the Parent Teachers Association card party last Wednesday night at Parish hall, proved to the members that the affair had been one of the most successful of the season, according to Mr. Charles Wahaub, president, this week. More than $85 clear were added to the general fund at the meeting Tuesday afternoon, to be used as occasion arises for clothing, shoes, eye glasses, or any other article or service that may be necessary to assist needy pupils. Mrs. Joe Jason, chairman of the card party arrangements and her assistants, Mrs. Fred Rogers, Mrs. Dutra and Mrs. Ed Roderick were commended.

Clothing for unfortunate children was brought to the Tuesday meeting, and turned over to Mrs. Rogers, philanthropy chairman, who will check over the articles and make a report of them to Mrs. H. A. Johnson, of Sunol, who in turn dispenses articles needed to other schools in the district. Centerville, in turn receives clothing from other areas. This precaution is taken, according to Mrs. Wahaub, to insure against local children seeing and commenting on articles given to the needy children.

The next meeting, slated for the third Tuesday in December, will feature an entertainment given in honor of Mrs. George Mathiesen, past president. Mrs. George Coit will have charge of the program.

Mrs. E. Santos, emblem chairman of the Alameda district attended the Tuesday meet. Mrs. Ed. Roderick was appointed emblem and magazine chairman for the Centerville council.

Amador Dramatic Class To Present Two Short Plays

Members of the Dramatic Class of the Amador Valley high school are rehearsing on two one act plays to be presented at the Pleasanton Veteran's Memorial building, Tuesday evening, December 12th.

The plays are being given merely to give the young artists an opportunity to show their talent. The Pie and the Tart, is one of the one act plays to be given. It is a French play and takes place in Old Paris in the fifteenth century. The plot of the play deals with two hungry vagabonds who manage to outwit a baker and run off with all his pastry.

Those taking part in the play are Arnold Abbott and Radcliff Howell, two vagabonds; Joseph Gibson, pastry cook; and Evelyn Boero, wife of the cook.

The second play is titled "The Kleptomaniac." It is a one act comedy. The story deals with a wealthy woman losing a purse containing her jewels and some money. How the thieves are captured is the humorous part of the story. It is a modern play and deals with society people.

Those taking part in this comedy are Beverly Rosa, who plays the part of a young widow; Helen Rivolta, the woman who lost the jewels; Kay Butler, the bride; Eleanor Ortiz, a newsy woman; Annette Giorgis, the minister's daughter; Evelyn Boero, a journalist; and Dorothy Kolln, a maid, all of Pleasanton.

Amador Hi Dons Start Practice In Basketball

Athletes of the Amador Valley high school started basketball practice last week under the coaching of Coach George Patterson.

There are fifteen out for basketball who will be divided into the varsity and B teams. Coach Patterson has cut the number in the groups down as much as possible so as to give special training to the regular players.

The first practice game was held Tuesday with the San Leandro boys. League play will not start until after Christmas.

The football season ended Friday with the Dons not defeating an opponent during the entire season. They won the Deaf and Dumb game by forfeit. This was the first year the Dons did not defeat an opponent during the season. The Dons were handicapped this year because they were lighter than those of their opponents. The loss of a number of Varsity lettermen last June at graduation was greatly felt this season. Last year the Dons turned out one of the best teams in the history of the school losing but one game during the entire season.

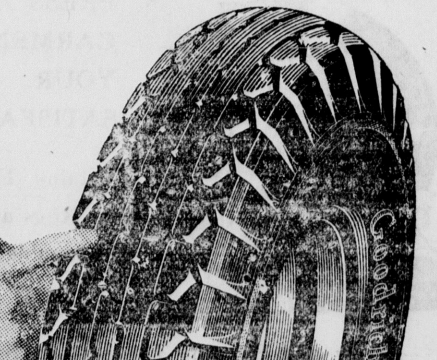

In 1872, the Board of Supervisors succeeded in getting an act passed by the legislature to bridge the Alameda creek at Niles. The bridge was built and accepted in October of the same year. It cost $12,000.

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it!

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is syrup pepsin. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

Pleasanton Girl Returns Home After Hike

Miss Maxine Morgan, who mysteriously disappeared from home about three weeks ago, returned to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miller Morgan, of Pleasanton, last Sunday.

Miss Morgan sent word to her parents by a letter that she was in Gridley and wanted to go home again. She was found walking on the road near Gridley by a minister and his wife who picked her up and kept her until her folks arrived for her.

Miss Morgan, when interviewed by Constable Al Vervais, stated that she left home because she wanted to see the country. When she left she intended to hitch-hike to her grandparents home who lived in Yreka. She lost track of the road leading to Yreka and landed in Gridley.

When she found her funds were getting low and that she would not have anymore to buy food to eat she wrote her parents to come after her.

E. E. Carroll, of Oakville was a visitor in Niles last week.

Livermore Eagles Hold Meeting at Pleasanton

Headed by the Livermore Eagles Drum Corps about two hundred members of the Livermore Eagles lodge marched up the main street of Pleasanton last Monday to the Odd Fellows' hall where a business meeting was held following the parade, and at which time a class of candidates was initiated into the order.

The meeting was the first to be held here and was especially for the honor of the Pleasanton men who are members of the order. It will be made an annual affair president Charles Fraisco announced.

The parade was headed by John J. Amaral, Chief of Police, John Delucchi, and Constable Vervais, of Pleasanton. Following was the drum corp. A drill team from the Fruitvale lodge was also in the line of march. Following the drill team were about two hundred members marching four abreast. They marched from the Odd Fellows' hall down Main street to the Veteran's Memorial building, contermarched back up Main street to St. John street and back to the Odd Fellows' hall.

About one hundred cars coming from Livermore were escorted to Pleasanton by Traffic officer John Mikles, of Livermore.

The new members initiated were Angelo Zaro, F. G. Minoglio, Bruno Conzini, C. Giambono, and August Guido, all of Livermore. The installing team from Livermore put on the exercises assisted by Charles Fraisco, president; Joseph Schonone, vice president; M. E. Duarte, chaplain; and J. R. Burkhardt, past president.

A banquet was held following the meeting.

"GHOST TRAIN" THRILLS PLEASANTON AUDIENCE

Filled with shrieks and cries of terror in the waiting room of a haunted railroad station, near Maine the Ghost Train a thrilling drama was presented by the Pleasanton Masquers, under the auspices of the Pleasanton Women's Improvement Club, at the Amador Valley high school gym, last Monday evening.

The thrilling mystery drama was one of the best performances ever put on in the community according to reports received from those who attended the spooky affair. The lighting effects, sounds of the wind and thunder cracking of breaks and the sounds of trains pulling in and out of the station were created in a realistic manner.

Everyone of the principals performed their parts in top form. Cliff Rosa, as Teddy Deakin, who was a happy go lucky lad interested in golfing, furnished the audience with laughs throughout the entire performance. Alice Layton, taking the part of Julia Price, who was supposed to have seen the Ghost Train, as it pulled into the station, worked the audience up and brought the performance to its climax, in a manner that no professional could have done better.

Bob Cope, as Charles Murdock, and Mrs. Frances Apperson, as Peggy, his wife, who were newly weds; and Edward Silveria, as Richard Winthrop, and Eleanor Rathke, as Elsie Winthrop, his wife, furnished the romance in the thrilling play.

Others who grasped the audience attention were Harry Tripp as Saul Hodgkin, station master; Mary Stovall, as Miss Bourne, a spinster; who was worked up over the spooky story of the station and who slept through the haunted hour of the night; Andy Jorgensen, as Herbert Price; Peter Christesen, as John Sterling; and Edward Soito, Jackson, detective.

The Pleasanton Masquers is an organization of local talent which has banded itself together for the purpose of enjoying the benefits to be derived from working cooperatively in dramatic productions. The play was coached by Professor Harry Tripp, musical instructor of Pleasanton schools. The Amador Valley high school orchestra furnished music between the acts and before and after the performance.

Farm Loan Applications are Growing Fast at Pleasanton

Loan applications received since the inception of the Pleasanton National Farm Loan Association aggregate over two million dollars, according to Claude Smallwood, secretary of the Association. Although the charter was granted only a few months ago applications in the number of over two hundred have been filed. With the perfecting of the machinery for handling applications by the Federal Land Bank at Berkeley the time of passing upon these applications has been greatly speeded up, and every day sees the proceeds of loans paid to borrowers.

The appraisal committee of the Pleasanton Association. Smallwood says have been kept very busy. This committee, composed of Louis Thompson, Dennis Nevin and E. T. Ellis just a few days ago made an appraisal trip which took them from the southern tip of Alameda county to the northern end of Contra Costa county—the two counties being the territory served by the Pleasanton Association.

A noteworthy feature of this institution's activity is the number of people brought to this town. A number of business men on Main street have already commented upon this fact.

Practice Scrimmage Is Held By Amador Dons

The game was very exciting and an exhibition of various plays were held by both teams. Joseph Peters and Ernie Bernard seemed to have done most of the work for the Sophomore-Junior group. In a game played last Wednesday afternoon the Freshmen defeated the sophomores by a score of 14 to 7. It was a hectic battle with the Freshmen showing much skill. The sophomore's score came as a result of an intercepted forward pass on the Freshmen twenty yard line, otherwise the Freshmen had things their own way throughout the game.

The practice scrimmage between the Freshmen-Senior team and the Sophomore-Junior group resulted in a nothing to nothing tie in a game played at the Amador Hi school field Friday afternoon.

Charles Viada acted as referee and Coach Patterson was umpire.

Jackson Earl Townsend will attend the Stanford-California game at Stanford Saturday afternoon.
